

August 13, 2009

Santa Fe, NM – Rep. Ben Ray Luján has launched a health insurance reform web page with information on Ben's position on health care reform, links so that constituents can read the full bill, and a new contact form that allows constituents to outline their opinions on health care and send them to the Congressman. The health insurance reform web page will help constituents to learn more about the health insurance reform legislation currently under consideration by Congress. Constituents are encouraged to check the site frequently for updates and more information on health insurance reform.

“It is important for my constituents to have access to factual information about health insurance reform,” said Rep. Luján. “It’s clear that our families can no longer afford the status quo. Even families with health insurance are facing higher costs and less stability. Many of those insured are a job loss, illness, or accident away from losing coverage altogether – putting homes, cars, dreams of college, and futures at risk. It is my hope that my health insurance reform web page will help the people of New Mexico learn more about health insurance reform and encourage them to share their thoughts with me.”

To visit Rep. Luján’s health insurance reform webpage, visit <http://lujan.house.gov/index.php/home/40/329>